Tour

If you have never used an NDG Online course before, get familiar with our interface by taking the tour. You can access it at any time using the Help menu in the upper right hand corner.
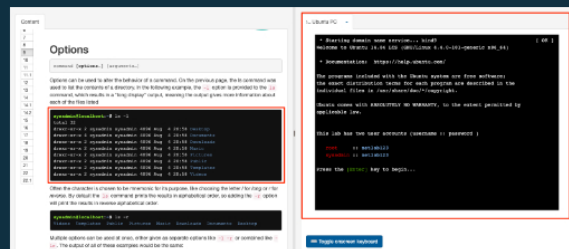

Objectives

This content aligns to various LPI Linux Essentials Exam 010-160 objectives. Please note that Linux Unhatched is designed to be an exploratory module for beginners which aligns to various LPI Linux Essentials objectives, but is not designed to be a comprehensive exam preparation module. For more information click on the Objectives tab:

Virtual Machines

To the right of the content you've been provide a Linux virtual machine to practice your skills on. All of the examples in this course were created on our machines and we encourage you to try them out! Be aware that the output you see on the command line interface will not always match the example in content exactly.
